Duties And Responsibilities of Judge Panel

5. Evaluation Panels

The minimum number of judges for panels is 12. However, at the World Championships, the minimum number of judges is 16.

Groups are evaluated by three panels of judges:

- Composition, Technical Value (TV), consists of 3–4 judges
- Composition, Artistic Value (AV), consists of 2 sub-panels (6–8 judges):
 - Artistic quality (AV-A), consists of 3–4 judges
 - Artistic elements (AV-B), consists of 3–4 judges
- Execution (EXE), consists of 3–4 judges

Duties and responsibilities of Evaluation Judges

- The judges must give their scores independently.
- During the competition, the judges may not discuss the evaluation with each other, the coaches or the gymnasts.
- Each panel of judges works independently and gives their points regardless of the other panels' points.

One of the evaluating judges in each panel (No1) will be the Head Judge.

All judges send their scores to the Head Judge of the Panel.

After the first performing group in a competition category, the judges meet to negotiate within their own panel and check the differences in their scores together. Judges must give their scores before the negotiation.

6. Line Judges

There must be a minimum of 2 (for World Championship - a minimum of 4) line judges who are observing the borderlines in the corners of the competition carpet.

Duties and responsibilities:

- Must signal each passing of the borderline of the competition area with a flag and record each of them on the designated slip of paper. At the end of the exercise, the line judges send the slip of paper to the Head Judge of the Execution Panel who approves the penalty. Penalty is deducted from the average score of Execution.
- Collect each lost item from the carpet and record each of them on the designated slip of paper. At the end of the exercise, the line judges send the slip of paper to the Head Judge of the AV-A Panel who approves the penalty. Penalty is deducted from the average score of the AV-A Panel.
- Fix color spots on the carpet (in case of detection) and record each of them on the designated slip of paper that will be provided. At the end of the exercise, the line judges send the slip of paper to the Judge Responsible who approves the penalty. Penalty is deducted from the average score of the AV-A Panel.

7. Time Judges

There must be at least 2 Time Judges. The Time Judges must measure the time independently and record the time for each team separately on the designated slip of paper.

If the length of the program does not conform to the regulations (according to at least one of the Time Judges), both Time Judges must come to the Head Judge of the Artistic Value (AV-A) Panel and show their stopwatches with measured timing. Head Judge checks and approves the penalty.

Timing starts from the beginning of the first movement after the group has taken the starting position on the competition carpet. Timing stops as soon as all gymnasts are completely motionless.

8. Reserve judge

Judge Responsible nominate Reserved if any is left from the approved Judges list. Reserve Judge is judging and participation in evaluation, but their score is not going to the scoring system.

A Reserve judge has the right to participate in judge meetings during a competition. In force majeure situations, Responsible Judge or IFAGG responsible person can appoint a reserve judge to take place in a panel evaluation during a competition.
